

ACTIVITY: Drawing Connections

What struck you the most when reading these articles?

What is unique or important about how these writers think about education?

How are these ideas different from how our current public education system operates?

What are the concrete approaches to teaching that these writers offer?

How are these ideas about education relevant beyond formal schools?

In what ways has the citizenship schools model influenced social justice movements?